The Knowledge Summit 2017 is a platform that brings together decision makers, thinkers, experts and pioneers in the knowledge industry, as well as scientists, academics and specialists from all around the world, to discuss pressing issues and challenges facing the industry, review best practices and experiences and offer solutions to meet the challenges.

The Fourth Industrial Revolution (4IR), also known as the Digital Revolution, is a cross-sectoral transformation unprecedented in human history, in terms of speed, scope and complexity. Experts place its origins in the early 21st century, coinciding with the large-scale proliferation of the Internet, smartphones and artificial intelligence around the world.

This revolution is spearheaded by rapid advancement in a number of key technologies, most notably artificial intelligence (AI), robotics, self-driving cars, 3D printing, Big Data, Blockchain and digital currencies, the Internet of Things (IoT), nanotechnology, biotechnology, energy storage and quantum
