Description:

Fintech Week is a series of conferences, exhibitions, workshops, hackathons, meetups and parties. Each day we focus on a different topics. We always ensure that there is plenty of time for networking and meeting other innovators. The main conference/exhibition takes place in the heart of London.

Fintech Week delegates come from around the globe to engage in one of the world's leading financial services ecosystems. It's truly an international event. With Brexit looming in the background, there's no better place to get answers than from London's key influencers and decision makers. Some may see challenges ahead, but there will also be plenty of opportunities in London for innovators from around the world.

Expect 500-800 conference delegates per day from over 50 countries and 3,000 – 4,000 participants in events throughout the week.

You can book tickets for specific events or purchase a full event pass and come and go as you please.
